

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An anti-lock braking and traction control system includes a sources of pressurized fluid, an actuator adapted to selectively supply the pressurized fluid to wheel brakes and a clutch. A controller communicates with the actuator to control the duration of magnitude of pressure supplied to the wheel brakes and the clutch.